CAMPAIGN BANNERS.

Making the Big Party Emblems That Stretch Across the Street.

One of the features of every great political campaign, especially in the large cities, is the showing made by the big party banners stretched across the streets or avenues. The services of twelve men are required to produce one of these big campaign banners.

Two men prepare the strips on which the lettering is done. Two more look after the lettering of these strips, the painting of the names of clubs or associations ordering the banners, the captions for the portraits and the offices for which the nominees are to contend.

Two men work on the centerpieces, generally consisting of an eagle and a shield. One man devotes himself to the special portraits, and the others assemble the various parts, sew the strips together and give the finishing touches to the banner.

The "portrait man" seems to do any other work than the main portrait. The rest he calls "filling in." By working on the same faces day after day this artist becomes so skillful that he can paint the portrait of a candidate (to use the words of one painter) "in the dark" and do it as true to life as the standard of the campaign banner industry requires.—Los Angeles Times.

OUR FIRST ADMIRAL.

The Rank Was Conferred Upon David G. Farragut in 1866.

The first officer of the United States navy to hold the rank of admiral was David G. Farragut, who was elevated to that position on July 25, 1866, as a reward for his great services in the war that had recently ended. Prior to the conflict between the states the highest rank in the United States naval service was that of commodore.

In 1862 congress conferred upon Farragut the rank of rear admiral, in 1861 that of vice admiral, and in 1866 he was made a full fledged admiral. Farragut died in 1870, and the title of admiral was then conferred upon David D. Porter, who held that rank until his death, in 1891.

Congress then abolished the title of admiral, and the grade of rear admiral remained the highest in Uncle Sam's naval service until 1899, when that of admiral was revived and conferred on George Dewey.

In that year the old title of commodore was abolished, and the holders were advanced to the grade of rear admiral.—New York World.

The Man Guessed Right.

In a church at Amsterdam there is a very ancient funeral monument of white marble on which are engraved a pair of slippers with the inscription, "Effen Nyl," which means, "exactly," and the story of this singularity is this: A man who was very rich, but who was a bon vivant, took it into his head that he was to live a certain number of years and no longer. Under the impression of this idea he calculated that if he spent so much a year his estate and his life would expire together. He was not mistaken in either of his calculations. He died precisely at that time which he had presented to himself in fancy and had then brought his fortune to such a predicament that after the paying of his debts he had nothing left but a pair of slippers. His relatives buried him in a creditable manner and had the slippers carved on his tomb with the above laconic inscription.

Shekels and Half Shekels.

The early Biblical references to pieces of silver do not in the original convey the idea of coins, but of weight, shekels. The Moslem "coblation to God" was a half shekel, and the shekel is explained by Josephus as equal to four Athenian drachmae of the value of about 55½ cents in American money. The first Jewish coinage under authority was, it is believed, struck by Simon, the Maccabee, about the year 140 B. C. It consisted of shekels and half shekels. This coinage had its value signified upon it, "Shekel Israel," in Samaritan characters.

Gold Sovereigns.

It was in 1817 that the gold coin known as the sovereign was declared to be of the value of 20 shillings. The proclamation declaring this to be its price current was issued on July 5 of that year. In 1489 pieces in value of 20 shillings, "to be called the sovereign," were ordered to be coined out of a pound of gold, but by 1550 they were passed as of the value of 24 shillings, and by 1552 they were passed as being of the value of 30 shillings. By the coinage act of 1870 the weight of the sovereign was fixed at 123.27447 grains troy.—London Standard.

Long and Short of It.

"There was a chap just in here looking for you, Smith."
"Was he tall or short?"
"Both."
"What do you mean?"
"He was a tall man, and he said he wanted to borrow a dollar."—Boston Transcript.

Very Strange.

Friend—What is the strangest case that you ever had in life insurance? Agent—Miss Oldbud. She took out a twenty year endowment policy when she was nineteen years of age, and it matures this year, when she is twenty-eight.—Puck.

As He Knew It.

Teacher—Tommy, can you spell "fur"? Thomas—Yes, sir—f-u-r. Teacher—That's right. Now, can you tell me what fur is? Thomas—Yes, sir. Fur is the skin of an animal.—Cornell Widow.

Doing nothing is a lesson in doing nothing.—Gerran proverb.

TRAITS OF THE MONKEY.

The Most Prominent Are Affection, Curiosity and Sympathy.

Monkeys have excellent memories and keen observation and are able to recognize their friends in a crowd even after long absence. They are exceedingly sensitive and sympathetic in their natures. Sympathy and curiosity, the two most prominent traits in the monkey psychology, are significantly the two most important factors in the psychology of man.

Monkeys are the most affectionate of all animals, excepting dogs and men. This affection reaches its culmination, as among men, in the love of the mother for her child. The mother monkey's little one is the object of her constant care and affection. She nurses and bathes it, licks it and cleans its coat and folds it in her arms and rocks it as if to lull it to sleep. Just as human mammas do. She divides every bite with her little one, but does not hesitate to chastise it with slaps and pinches when it is rude. The monkey child is generally very obedient.

The affection of monkeys is not confined to the love of the mother for her child, but exists among the different members of the same tribe and extends even to human beings, especially to those who make any pretensions to do to them as they would themselves be done by.—Exchange.

GERMANY'S FIRST VICTORY.

When Hermann Defeated the Roman Legions in the Year 10.

The first great military victory of the Germans was achieved in the year 10, when Publius Quinctilius Varus, the Roman governor of Germany, committed suicide after his army had suffered a decisive defeat at the hands of the Teuton barbarians of Hermann.

The latter had formed a confederation of all the nations between the Rhine and the Weser and renounced all allegiance to Rome. Varus advanced on the rebels with an army of three legions. The Germans gradually withdrew until they lured the Romans into the Teutoburger forest. There they gave battle, and the Romans were routed with great slaughter. Varus having lost 90,000 men, atoned for his disgrace by saying himself.

When the news of the defeat reached Emperor Augustus he went wallowing about his palace, crying out, "Varus, Varus, give me back my legions!" Thereafter the Teutons were among the most dangerous of the enemies of Rome. In the reign of Theodosius the Germans crossed the Rhine and drove the Romans out of Spain, France and Portugal. St. Louis Post Dispatch.

How a Great Surgeon Died.

While Bichat, the famous surgeon, was dying of typhoid fever he turned to an old colleague who was sitting beside his bed and said to him:

"My friend, I am lost, but it is some consolation to know that my case is very curious. During the last few days I have noticed some odd symptoms, and I am studying them carefully."

"Oh, you may recover yet," said the friend.

"That is impossible," replied Bichat, "and if it were not for one thing I would be quite willing to die."

"What is that?" asked the friend.
"I am exceedingly sorry," answered Bichat, "that I shall not have an opportunity to perform an autopsy on myself after my death, for I know that I would make some wonderful scientific discovery."

An hour later he was dead.

Derivation of Gibraltar.

In 711 A. D. the Arabs crossed the narrow strait of Gibraltar and established themselves around the famous rock whose name is derived from their leader. Field Marshal Tarik was one of the leaders of the Arab invasion of Spain. Gebel is an Arabic word meaning mountain. The great rock, which is by far the most conspicuous object along the shores of the strait, was accordingly named after Tarik Gebel el Tarik, or the mountain of Tarik. It is easy to see how this name became changed into its present form, Gibraltar.

Curious Water Pipe.

At Mount Lowe, Cal., the thirsty visitor has only to turn on a faucet projecting from a large tree near the hotel and water begins to flow. No water pipes are to be seen, and curiosity is aroused at once. The lower part of the tree is hollow, and the pipes are run underground and up through the hollow part to a knothole, where a faucet is attached. Around the faucet the hole is plugged up with cement which looks like the tree itself.

Goliath.

The famous Goliath, whose great height and swaggering air so frightened the troops of King Saul and who was slain by the stripling David with pebbles from the brook, was eight feet six inches high. He was a native of Gath and lived 1063 B. C.

Wireless in the Wilds.

When a survey was made of the wilds of Bolivia all longitude was figured by the aid of time signals sent by wireless from a station 120 miles from the base of operations.

More Plausible.

Tharks—The moon is dead. Bjcenks—Yes, and they say it came out of the Pacific ocean. Tharks—H'm! Why don't they say it came out of the Dead sea?—Exchange.

The way to fame is very much like the way to heaven—through much tribulation.—Laurance Sterne.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Patron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its luring me, and am doing all my work."
